

PARIS VICTIM KNOWN HERE.

MRS. ELLEN GORE WAS IN NEW YORK LAST SUMMER.

Had Separated From Her Husband Who Is a Canadian Surveyor—Then She Went to Paris to Study Music—No Light on Her Death in Russian's Rooms.

Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN. PARIS, Nov. 21.—A photograph of the name of Getzel says he knew Mrs. Ellen Gore, the woman who was shot dead in the rooms of the Russian, Rydzenski, here on Wednesday. He declares that she was born in San Francisco and went to Paris, where she grew up and was married. Afterward she obtained a divorce and moved to Columbus, Ohio. Later she went to Chicago.

Mrs. Gore came to Paris with letters of recommendation and introduction to M. Toledo, the manager of the Aeolian house here. M. Toledo advised Mrs. Gore to take lessons from Moszkowski, who speaks highly of her musical attainments.

Mrs. Gore's mail came to the Aeolian house, where she was a constant visitor. She attended the recitals and concerts given twice a week.

The last one she attended was on Tuesday of this week. Yesterday Mrs. Gore had an appointment to meet M. Toledo, Jr., and accompany him to a matinee. When she did not arrive on time, young Toledo sent a messenger to her landlady to ask about her. The landlady replied, "She is not here; she is dead and the body has been taken to the morgue."

The employees of the Aeolian company speak in high terms of Mrs. Gore's grace, beauty and genial disposition. They scout the idea that such a bright and happy young woman committed suicide.

The letters from a lawyer found in Mrs. Gore's rooms refer entirely to business matters, chiefly in regard to the sale of property in Mexico.

Rydzenski is a pupil of the celebrated baritone Lassalle, who has a high opinion of him and is convinced of his innocence. Lassalle speaks in the highest terms of his pupil. He says the Imperial theatrical authorities of St. Petersburg sent Rydzenski to him to test his voice and find out if he was really capable of filling great roles.

Lassalle says he worked Rydzenski hard for three months and then sent him back to St. Petersburg, where he remained in Rydzenski's "Demon." He returned to Paris three weeks ago under a subpoena from the Russian Government to continue his studies, and was actually studying Tschakowsky's opera, "Eugen Onegin."

Lassalle says he never spoke of Mrs. Gore, but about two weeks ago he introduced Lassalle to a woman, giving her the first and descriptions of her. She asked M. Lassalle for permission to study his method and remained throughout that lesson. She promised to return, but he never saw her again.

Rydzenski asked Lassalle to find a lawyer for him. Lassalle has invited Maître Vignot to the apartment of the Figaro, to undertake Rydzenski's defence.

The maid who took care of Rydzenski's apartments says that on the day of the tragedy she took a telegram to the post office for her employer, saying he was indisposed. Mrs. Gore called shortly afterward.

Rydzenski says his landlady was mistaken in thinking he said Mrs. Gore had committed suicide. Police Inspector Landel says the landlady misunderstood Rydzenski, who speaks imperfect French. The singer's friends declare that he would not be guilty of committing murder.

The Magistrate, who is an expert to investigate the story told by Rydzenski. The expert is to ascertain whether the revolver could have been discharged by being knocked off the table in the manner described by Rydzenski, and if so, in what direction it could have gone in the direction indicated.

Judge Gammeval, who is investigating the tragedy, has received visits from several important Russians, including Basile Scheleitchin, the Councillor of State attached to the institutions of the Empress. Col. Meaux St. Marc, the household officer of President Louis, has also been seen.

There are numerous rumors abroad in regard to the relations of M. Rydzenski and Mrs. Gore, in some of which the woman's reputation is impugned. It is apparent that these are mere canards. The friends of Mrs. Gore, however, are astonished to learn that her body was found in Rydzenski's rooms.

VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 21.—Ten years ago Ellen Gore was a leader in both musical and social circles here. Her husband, Thomas Gore, was noted for his exploring tours into the wilds of the Canadian Northwest, and he was president of the Provincial Land Surveyors' Association.

It was on a professional visit to Lower California that the young Canadian became acquainted with the singer, he, too, being a vocalist of considerable ability. They were married at Los Angeles, after which Mr. and Mrs. Gore returned here. Discord in the household came, and the chance remark of the director of Emma Abbott's company, then touring the West, that a voice such as hers belonged to art and the public rather than to the family circle. Her ambition was fired, and, being met with an equal determination upon her husband's part to lose her, she came to New York and lived at Mrs. White's.

She also came here and lived in a house on the upper West Side and attended the American School of Opera at 215 West Forty-second street. Mrs. Gore also studied music, but after staying here several weeks, went to Paris.

At the offices of the Aeolian Company in this city it was said yesterday that nothing was known of Mrs. Gore.

ROW IN SPANISH CHAMBER. Premier Sagasta Attacked and Leaves the House.

Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN. MADRID, Nov. 21.—There was a stormy sitting of the Chamber yesterday. Señor Romero Robledo, who had been spoken of as one of the members of the new Cabinet, approached Prime Minister Sagasta on his political antecedents. He said the Premier was not the leader of a party, but a favorite of the King.

Señor Suarez Inclan, who succeeded Señor Canalejas as Minister of Agriculture in the last Cabinet, and who addressed the House. Amid a great uproar Señor Sagasta withdrew and the President declared the sitting closed, notwithstanding the protests of the opposition members, who shouted, "No! no! no!"

Upon the resumption of the sitting of the Chamber, by a vote of 161 to 118, rejected a motion censuring the Government.

ADVISE CUBA TO MAKE TERMS.

Havana Newspapers Discuss a Commercial Treaty.

Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN. HAVANA, Nov. 21.—The Diario de la Marina, referring to the conference between Col. Bliss, the American special agent, and representatives of the economic societies, says it is easy to see that there will be differences between them. It is a well known fact that the Cuban Government and the treaty negotiations are being carried on in Havana instead of in Washington, where Minister Quezada would have had great difficulty, being without data to consult, whereas Col. Bliss is a veritable arsenal of facts. A 20 per cent reduction in the American tariff is little, but it should be accepted if what the United States asks in exchange is not excessive and will not cause a decrease in the revenues that will make a Cuban government impossible.

The Discussion says that the outlook for Cuban sugar is excellent and that it will become for the United States a very important commodity. The United States will have to buy it whatever duty may have to be paid on it, and the public in Cuba knows this. Hence, there is reason for thinking that a treaty which would oblige Cuba to close her ports to other nations is not advisable. Nevertheless, as there is a feeling of equity between the Governments of the United States and Cuba the latter should not refuse to come to an arrangement. Reasons of a political nature incline many Cubans against a refusal to yield somewhat. A treaty of reciprocity between the two countries would be a new bond of friendship, which would mean stability and a stimulus to foreign capital.

The Asador Comercial says that by giving the Americans a large preferential duty Cuba would be isolated and be subject to the American market. Cuba could do without a treaty with the United States; but it is not advisable to do so, and as she will not be able to do so without a treaty which should also meet all she has a right to. She should show that she does not oppose an arrangement from any special motive or passion, but should safeguard the interests of the country.

Leoncio Varela, a Spaniard, representing the Mercaderes' Union, Leopoldo Canelo, formerly Secretary of Finance, Mr. Wood, representing the Society of Friends of the Country, Froilon Rivero of the Planters' Society, Antonio Cervero of the Union Cigarmakers, and Laureano Rodriguez, Secretary of the Merchants' Union, had a consultation to-day with President Palma, at which the latter presented the treaty and read and discussed. The conference was presided over by the various societies at the request of President Palma to give their opinions of the treaty. The meeting was private, but stenographic notes were taken.

The President Palma has appointed Señores Zaldo and Montes as commissioners to Col. Bliss, and their conference will begin to-morrow. Col. Bliss did not attend the conference between President Palma and the representatives of the economic societies. He refuses to meet any one in connection with the treaty except officials of the Government.

MGR. GUIDI MEETS GOV. TAFT

PROMISE OF FRANKNESS IN SETTLING CHURCH QUESTIONS.

Friendly Personal Message From the Pope—Method of Conducting the Negotiations Not Yet Fixed—Gen. Miles Advises the Filipinos to Be Patient.

Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN. MANILA, Nov. 21.—Mgr. Guidi, Apostolic Delegate to the Philippines, made a formal call upon Gov. Taft at the Malacanan Palace to-day and presented his credentials from Cardinal Rampolla, Papal Secretary of State. He also delivered a friendly personal message from the Pope. In his speech presenting his credentials Mgr. Guidi said that harmony and confidence were necessary to the accomplishment of the work before them, that of settling the church property and friar questions. He promised to be frank in all his dealings, and asked Gov. Taft to be the same with him.

In reply Gov. Taft heartily agreed that the best method of settling the difficult questions pending between Church and State would be found in entire frankness and open dealing. He expressed the hope that a friendly settlement of property rights would be reached without it being necessary to resort to the courts. Mgr. Guidi added that he believed he and Mgr. Guidi could speedily reach a fair agreement on the entire question. He cordially welcomed Mgr. Guidi and fittingly acknowledged the kindly greetings from the Pope.

The method of the work and the date for opening the negotiations have not yet been determined. Mgr. Guidi is conferring with the Bishop and clergy with the view to locating local conditions.

Gen. Sembrillo, a notorious insurrectionist and leader, has surrendered to the constabulary in Albay province, Sembrillo surrendered last year and swore allegiance to the United States, but later he returned to the hills and organized a band of ladrones, who have been operating in Albay and Camarines provinces. Fifty of his followers surrendered, giving up their arms and a quantity of stolen property. The proclamation recently of the Government making highway robbery by armed bandits a capital crime probably influenced Sembrillo to surrender.

Speaking at a reception given in his honor at Celu, Gen. Miles advised the Filipinos to be peaceful and patient, and to trust the Americans to bring all questions to a satisfactory settlement. He said he hoped the ambition of the people for autonomy would ultimately be fulfilled.

CANE RUSH AT COLUMBIA.

Scrap That Followed the Planting of a Lobster on South Field Fence.

There was an old-fashioned cane rush at Columbia yesterday after the intercollegiate football game between the sophomores and the freshmen. The figures of a red lobster painted on the South Field fence and labeled "1902" was the cause of it all.

"Fight talk" was heard on the campus all day, and in the afternoon the underclassmen turned out in full force clad in sweaters, jerseys and football boots.

The freshmen gathered in a distant part of the field and made a mad rush on the freshmen to win the cane. The line was eight minutes and every second of it was used in the struggle to grasp the coveted stick. Men scrambled over the heads and shoulders of one another and disarranged lines. First in the van was the champion, Michael Alexander, a stage carpenter, who was named as the champion.

FELIX CAMPBELL'S WILL.

Draft of Estate Given to the Widow and Daughters—$20,000 to Church.

All doubt as to the existence of a will of the late ex-Congressman Felix Campbell was set at rest yesterday by the filing of the document with three copies in the Surrogate's office in Brooklyn by Judge Surrogate Patrick Campbell, brother of the testator, who is also named as executor. The vast bulk of the estate, of which no schedule has been filed, but which is conservatively valued at over $500,000, is given share and share alike to Mrs. Mary Campbell, the widow, and the four daughters, Mrs. Alice Campbell Good, Minnie Campbell, Sadie Campbell and Susie Campbell.

The wife's share is given in half of her, and at her death it is to be divided among the widow and four daughters. Patrick Campbell and John Campbell, brothers of the testator, and Mary L. Lynch, a sister, each receive an annuity of $1,000 and annuities of $500 each are left to his wife, sister, Ann, his niece, Etta Campbell and Nellie Campbell, his nephew, George Campbell, and the Rev. John Ward of Philadelphia, a cousin of the deceased.

The will, which was executed on June 14, 1895, is valued at $20,000. Of this amount one-half is to go to the building fund of the contemplated new Catholic cathedral in the City of Brooklyn, formerly the Fire Department fund. The widow and Mrs. Good, one of the daughters, are also named as executors. Waivers of the issue and service of the will are filed from each of the beneficiaries and the will will be admitted to probate without further proceedings.

The executors are empowered to sell from time to time the real estate on such terms as they may see fit, and also to continue the investment in real estate, so long as they deem it of interest to the estate.

A DIVORCE TO H. G. EAMES.

His Wife a Thorough Girl and the Correspondent a Stage Carpenter.

Supreme Court Justice Marean granted an interlocutory decree of absolute divorce in Brooklyn yesterday to Harry G. Eames against Sarah Redcliffe Johnson Eames. The couple were married about six years ago. The plaintiff is a reporter on one of the Brooklyn newspapers and is prominent as a member of the Men's Club of Plymouth Church. The defendant is a chorus girl in the Bostonian company. Michael Alexander, a stage carpenter, was named as the correspondent.

The sophomore gathered in a distant part of the field and made a mad rush on the freshmen to win the cane. The line was eight minutes and every second of it was used in the struggle to grasp the coveted stick. Men scrambled over the heads and shoulders of one another and disarranged lines.
